

KEIICHI KATSUNO

RUBY ON RAILS DEVELOPER

PROFILE

A Ruby on Rails developer based in Melbourne.

My career progression has zigzagged for the past 8 years in various industries and countries, started with Sales and Marketing in manufacturing equipment and machinery in Japan, turned into Production in coffee in The UK and Colombia, and finally, ended up in Software Engineering for the sports industry in Australia, which currently I am obsessed with. These journeys have always been growing my confidence to survive in this competitive world and let me deeply understand what I want to achieve in my career.

Currently, I am pursuing growing my skillset in backend and frontend web application development, enjoying committing to production as a software developer at Stack Team App.
